

LIVE PRINTMAKING DEMONSTRATIONS

Stephen wiggins

www.wigginsartwork.com

@wigginsartwork

info@wigginsartwork.com

2022 – June Grey line Station monthly pop up event – showed people how to print linocut prints

2022 – May Grey line Station monthly pop up event – showed people how to print linocut, lego and letterpress prints live

2022 – Distillery District Music Festival – Showed how people can print lego and linocut prints at the April 22 – 24th music fest

2022 – March showed people how to use a 3d printed printing press to print their own woodcut prints at BIG INK at TIGER LILY PRESS in Cincinnati, Ohio

2022 – March - Showed people to print linocut stickers at Kentucky Crafted and how to print lego relief prints

2022- February - Taught middle school kids how to screenprint images of African American writers at the Dunbar Community Center

2022 – February -Taught 45 people how to print images of African American writers and activists at carver artworks building at parks and rec

2022- February- Taught 50 people how to print legos at the Parks and Rec Valentine's Printmaking Workshop

2021 – Showed several people how to do lego prints at the Wintersong event at Buster's Music hall in Lexington, Kentucky

2020 MADE in St. Louis Makerspace - January 2020 - Demonstrating photo emulsion screen printing process to more than 20 people during an open house in St. Louis Missouri

2019- Mauhaus Cafe-July 2019-Printed Cat prints screenprint and linocut for patrons of the Let them eat Art festival in Maplewood, Missouri

2019- Central Print Open House-February 2019 Printed valentines in downtown St. louis at the non profit printmaking studio.

2018 - Demonstrated Printmaking at the Half Price books store printing black ink onto cotton bags and giving to customers

2018 – GreenFest – NorthSide YMCA - lead a screen printing and gelatin printmaking exhibit for an event hosting over 50 people printmaking- Michelle Patterson

June 2018 – set up a printmaking demonstration for people attending the night market that included gelatin printmaking demonstrations where kids could take a print home with them. – Samantha Johnson contact

2018- Valentine's printmaking event – Lexington Parks and Rec- Mindy Stone-Amber Luallen – Bluegrass Printmakers – February 2018 – taught and lead a community print workshop to over 100 participants

2017- Halloween Art Demonstration - showed over 100 kids how to do monotypes at Hamburg Pavilion – Jessica York

2017 March – Demonstrated linocut printmaking to 12 adults from South Korea visiting Lexington Parks and Recreation. I showed how I carve my blocks and to ink the block and print onto a t-shirt which I gave to them as a gift. - Mindy Stone

2017 - Dixie Elementary Magnet School - Did a day long monotype project for over 150 students over 6 class periods – Rachel Losch

2017 - 4H Girls group - Demonstrated screenprinting to 6 high school students and 2 adults, showed the process from start to finish and everyone got to take home a piece of art they made. – Lexington Parks and Rec – Chaquenta Smith

2017 June First Friday family night - Hamburg Pavilion showed kids and adults how to do screen printing at the event- Lexington Kentucky – Jessica York

2017 - Kentucky Greenfest - Bluegrass Greensource- demonstrated screenprinting, linocut and monotype to kids and adults – Michelle Patterson

2017 Mellow Market screen printing demonstration July to more than 50 attendees

2017 Kentucky Artisan Center, linocut demonstration June 2017 to more than 50 attendees – Gwen Hefner

2017-Night Markets May - August - demonstrated linocut and screenprinting, Bryan Avenue, Lexington, KY – Samantha Johnson

2016 Lexington Art League Black Friday Art Sale Linocut Print Sale. Demonstrated linocut techniques
Logan Dennison

2016 CSA Event with the Lexington Guild of Printmakers at the Church of God on Bryan Ave. Did live screenprinting and linocut printmaking. Sarah Madison Brown, Greg Lamer

2016 Rural Urban Exchange Conference - The Livery, Lexington, KY- September 10th, 2016. Demonstrated linocut printmaking and talked about how print is used in social justice.
Tanya Torp

2016 Jessamine County Public Library - Linocut printmaking demonstration July 16, 2016 – Rebecca Montego

2016 Lexington Convention Center - Kentucky Market - linocut printmaking demonstration during the Kentucky Senate Conference - July 10, 2016 – Gwen Hefner

2016 Night Market - showed and produced monotype prints with attendees July 1st, 2016 – Samantha Johnson

2016 Great Impressions, demonstrated linoleum cut printmaking onto paper and fabric June 4, 2016

2016 June Night Market showed and produced prints with attendees used the monotype print methods– Samantha Johnson

2016 Family Fun Night Carnegie Center showed and produced prints with attendees – Amber Cooke

2015 Family Fun Night Carnegie Center showed and produced prints with attendees – Meredith Quinn

2015 Cup of Commonwealth, demonstrated linocut printmaking, May 2016

2013 Woodland Arts Fair 2013, Woodland Park, demonstrated and taught monotype printmaking for children and adults, Lexington, KY – Logan Dennison

2013 Francisco's Farm Art Fair at Equus Run Vineyards, demonstrated and taught monotype printmaking for children, Midway, Kentucky – Lexington Art League

2012 Wesleyan Church Conference, Heritage Hall, Lexington, KY, painted live and on stage during a Sunday evening worship rally in front of hundreds of conference attendees. Used acrylic paint to make a 3 foot tall x 5 foot wide painting onto canvas.

2012 February Gallery Hop – at Bluegrass Printmaker's Co-op, Lexington, KY demonstrated printing tshirts using the linocut printmaking method

2010 Fall Jesus Prom – Southland Christian Church – painted a 5 foot x 7 foot canvas live and on stage during the Jesus Prom, an annual dance for seniors and mentally challenged adults dance the night away.

2006 Fall Jesus Prom – Southland Christian Church – painted a 5 foot x 7 foot canvas live and on stage during the Jesus Prom, an annual dance for seniors and mentally challenged adults dance the night away.

2005 Fall Christian Student Fellowship –Jesus as King – theme - painted a 4 foot by 6 foot canvas live and on stage during the worship services at a college campus ministry at the University of Kentucky.